

Toni Wimby, FACHE - Bio

Toni Wimby, FACHE, is a seasoned executive with over 25 years of operational strategy, program development, and healthcare operations experience. She is the former Director of Operations at Emory University Midtown Hospital and held various positions at Emory Healthcare including VP of Operations and Associate Administrator. As a senior leader at Emory Healthcare, she was responsible for promoting strategies that supported clinical and business operations management, and financial performance.

As a capstone to her career development, Toni graduated from the Harvard Business Analytics Program, studying data analytics and artificial intelligence. She also received an MBA in Marketing and Master of Health Administration from Georgia State University, and B.S. in Finance from Florida A & M University.

Toni is a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives, former ACHE Regent for Georgia and an alumna of Leadership Atlanta. She is also active in the community and serves on the board of the Nehemiah Project Community Development Corporation (CDC), which provides a range of community development and housing rehabilitation services to low-income Atlanta area residents.